BUSINESS AND THE PROTECTION OF THE GENERAL INTEREST AND THE CITIZEN.

As they are at the crossroads of society, the economy and the law, companies are at the forefront of today’s societal, digital and environmental challenges, gradually transforming them into stakeholders in the protection of the general interest and the citizen.

It is up to national and international lawmakers to provide a legal framework but also encourage companies and support them in these multiple changes.

The session revolved around different aspects of the protection of the citizens’ interests and the distinct contribution of corporations and other actors involved with the corporations’ activities to that goal.

Key takeaways

- How 21st century companies can contribute to economic and social progress globally.
Speakers

- Jeffrey Schlagenhauf, Deputy Secretary General, Organization for Economic Co-Operation & Development
- Marie-Florence Zampiero-Bouquemont, Civil Law Notary, Vice President of the Assembly for the Liaison of the French Notaries
- Louis-Bernard Buchman, Lawyer at the Paris Bar, President of the European and International Affairs Commission of the French National Bar Council
- Frédéric Varin, Civil Law Notary, International expert for the High Council of French Notariat
- Mariel Kalkach, Research Scholar, UNESCO Chair in Bioethics and Human Rights
- Stéphane de Navacelle, Lawyer at the Paris Bar, Member of the Paris Bar Association
- Anne-Charlotte Gros, Executive Director of the Foundation for civil law